Kedves Kollégák!

Csatoltan küldöm a Regional Studies Association Bulletinjének januári számát az RSA több idei rendezvényére vonatkozó információval, és az események, lehetőségek elérhetőségére vonatkozó linkekkel.

Figyelembe ajánlom a júniusi ljubljanai éves konferenciát és a PhD hallgatók számára kínált számos lehetőséget.

Üdvözlettel,
Attila

Amennyiben nem szeretne több tájékoztatást kapni az RSA eseményeiről, az általa kínált lehetőségekről, kérem, jelezzon vissza a küldő címen: attila.korompai@uni-corvinus.hu

Dear members of the Regional Studies Association and the wider community,

Welcome to the first edition of the 2023 RSA eBulletin, and I would like to take this opportunity to wish you a successful year ahead.

We are looking forward to our Annual Conference, taking place in Slovenia this coming June. Planning is well underway, and there are currently 40 special sessions listed.

Registration will open tomorrow (1st February), with fantastic early bird rates available until 31st March. There is also more information about the plenaries on our website, including the opening Plenary Panel on Green Global Value Chains for Sustainable Regional Development; the inaugural plenary for the new journal, Finance and Space, and the Territory Politics Governance Annual Lecture 'What does a more sustainable Future require? Strengthening Cooperation, Improving Governance and understanding the Politics of Systemic Change'. Full details of these and more can be found on the conference webpages.

There is currently a call out for an Editor in Chief for Spatial Economic Analysis, the pioneering economics journal from the RSA and Regional Science Association International – British and Irish Section, dedicated to the development of theory and methods in spatial economics. This call has a deadline of the 6th February 2023.

On the subject of journals, we are delighted to be able to share with you some of the most read journal articles across our journals in 2022, and you can find a selection of open access articles below. Links to all the Awards videos for the 2022 Best Papers and Best Referees can now be seen in the Publications section below, and we are looking forward to celebrating with our authors and referees again soon.

There is an imminent deadline of the 31st of March for the RSRS Student and Early Career mentored section, with contributions are welcomed from any discipline in the field of regional studies or regional science and with any geographical focus. Authors of accepted paper proposals are assigned a Corresponding Editor who will work with them through the submission process, guiding them towards a high-quality article.

We have many more Student and Early Career Opportunities, including the 2023 RSA Awards for recent Master's students, PhD students and Early Career researchers. If you have (or know someone who has) made an original and outstanding contribution to research concerned with the analysis of regions and regional issues, make sure to submit your nomination by the 20th April. In other funding news, there are now opportunities to apply for a Travel Grant to help towards travel costs to present and participate at worldwide non-RSA events. There are also the Early Career, Membership and Fellowship grant application deadlines coming up in May.

We are also canvassing for the upcoming AcSS nominations, where we can nominate up to 5 current RSA members to become Fellows of the Academy of Social Science. The selection process is competitive and involves a rigorous nomination process, and you can find more details below.

And finally, if you were following the Regionalists on Film series, you might have missed the final episodes coming out over the holiday period. I hope you enjoy watching these short interviews and we hope to produce another series of short films again this year.

The RSA continues to support our members and the broader regional studies community, and if you have any questions or want to find out more about the RSA, please do get in touch. If there is anything you would like to see included in our eBulletin, please do let us know. Our Opportunity pages list current vacancies, PhD studentships and non-RSA events, and please do email Alex with any postings you think would be of interest to the wider regional studies community.

2023 Annual Conference

The planning for the 2023 RSA Annual Conference (Ljubljana, Slovenia between 14–17 June 2023) is well underway. You can now see the current special sessions, plenary speakers and our conference partners. Registration will open by the 1st February 2023, but you can submit your special session or abstract now. The draft programme is now online.

Side events include the 4th Networking Workshop for Early and Mid-Career Women and Young Scholars Initiative.

Registration opens on the 1st February 2023

Important dates:

- Abstract submission is now open (deadline 28th February)
- Special Session submission deadline 7th February 2023

Please visit the Conference page for full information.

Call for Editor-in-Chief for Spatial Economic Analysis

The Regional Studies Association and Regional Science Association International – British and Irish Section seek to appoint an Editor-in-Chief to the journal, Spatial Economic Analysis. The current Editor-in-Chief, Professor Paul Elhorst (Groningen), will step down at the end of his second editorial term in 2023.

Find out more about the journal and the journal metrics.

For full details on how to apply, please click here.

Closing Date: Monday 6th February 2023, 17.00 (GMT).

RSA Nominations to the Academy of Social Sciences

ACADEMY of SOCIAL SCIENCES

The Regional Studies Association is a member of the UK-based Academy of Social Science (AcSS). It is the national academy of academics, learned societies and practitioners in the social sciences, with a mission to promote social science in the United Kingdom for the public benefit. Twice a year, the RSA is permitted to nominate up to 5 current RSA members to become Fellows of the Academy of Social Science.

Nominees must be people of established status and reputation, and must have made a substantial contribution to wider social science policy or practice, going beyond the normal requirements of their position.

The selection process is competitive and involves a rigorous nomination process. To find out more or make an application for nomination, please find the full details here.

RSA Funding Updates

For information about each grant and eligibility requirements, please click the images below to visit the specific grant pages. There are deadlines are coming up in May 2023, so be sure to have a look and apply soon.

RSA Regional Studies Association

Awards

Nominations (both self-nominations and third-party nominations) of current members are being sought for the following awards in regional studies and related fields:

- Nathaniel Lichfield Recent Master's Award
- Paul Benneworth PhD Student Award
- RSA Routledge Early Career Award

Application deadline: 20th April 2023

For more details, please click here.

The RSA offers our members funding towards travel costs when attending a non-RSA event. This grant is a fantastic opportunity to help you towards your travel costs to present your work, network and participate at worldwide non-RSA events within the field of regional studies and/or regional science.

2023 Application Deadlines: 23 Feb, 25 May, 28 Sept and 23 Nov.

For more details, please click here.

Corporate Member Spotlight

Our RSA Corporate members include a range of institutions with broad remits, and we look forward to shining the spotlight on our Corporate members every month. This month, the spotlight is on the OECD Centre for Entrepreneurship, SMEs, Regions and Cities.

For more information about the benefits associated with a Corporate membership, please see here.

Membership Benefit of the Month

Widen your networks with the RSA Expert Register

An RSA membership brings with it a wide range of member benefits. One of these is the Expert Register, a searchable database of RSA members around the world. Whether you are looking for policy makers, practitioners or researchers; experts sharing your research interests, or researchers in different geographies, you can use the Expert Register to find new colleagues. Search by name, profession, discipline, geography and/or research keywords.

RSA members can find the Expert Register in the RSA Lounge, under the Community tab.

Join our Membership Community

Support the work of the Regional Studies Association

We are a registered charity working with researchers and policymakers across all career stages and geographical regions in the field of regional studies and science. We believe that all voices should be heard, and we work hard to ensure our community is an inclusive and diverse environment in which to share and disseminate regional research.

But we are a small charity with much work to do. Your support could make a real difference and allow us to continue to run free events, give research grants and awards and support the community.

If you would like to support the RSA, please consider joining us if you are not a member already or donating via the links below.
